Marriott International's Bonvoy Program Allows for All Travelers to Continue Traveling Marriott Bonvoy Allows Travelers to Save Money and Receive Rewards Like Never Before

CHICAGO, Jan. 25, 2022 ----- With the start of the new year behind us, Valentine's Day is quickly approaching. Marriott International wants to remind all travelers of the Marriott Bonvoy rewards program. The program allows customers to earn rewards while traveling to any destination when staying at one of Marriott International's 30 brand hotels.

"The rewards program was created with the goal of keeping every traveler in mind allowing them to enhance the travel experience simply for checking in," said Brian Povinelli, Senior Vice President, Brand, Loyalty & Portfolio Marketing manager. "Customers are able to earn rewards no matter the length of their stay, or reason for their travel."

Once Marriott Bonvoy member status is activated, travelers will start to receive benefits instantly. Member benefits include free Wi-Fi, mobile check-in, special member rates and free-night stays. The benefits never expire and grow the more one travels. With several diverse levels of rewards for those who stay anywhere from one night to 100 plus nights per year.

The ability to earn rewards comes from more than just the hotel stays with the Bonvoy program. Chase and American Express cardholders have the opportunity to earn even more rewards with Marriott Bonvoy, allowing the ability to rack up even more points with the program. For these cardholders, the business trip taken today can lead to the family vacation of tomorrow.

Marriott Bonvoy's main objective is promoting travel in a post-pandemic world. The creation of these cards from Chase and American Express, in cooperation with the Bonvoy rewards system, has allowed all travelers to earn points that are redeemable in many aspects of their travel experiences.

To register for Marriott International's Bonvoy rewards program, visit marriottbonvoy.com. All past and present Marriott customers are encouraged to apply to the free program and start earning rewards today.
